

» EP 100

« SE 900MV

A modest inspiration

» Glaser Mouse G30

The SGD300 keyboard with dynamic illumination and 250 blinking LEDs. The state-of-the-art mouse with display functionality and programmable buttons. Not all of us have the stamina to keep pace with science. Indeed, some of us find strength in rebelling against the relentless pursuit of technology and Sononic's austere design philosophy is a timely dose of what it's like to be self-sufficient. Independent. Human.

This unwavering commitment to simplicity runs through their latest line-up of computer accessories. The multimedia desktop DX5500 could not better exemplify the balance between functionality and minimalist aesthetics. From the low-profile, streamlined keyboard to the pastel glaser mouse's ergonomic feel – it's nice to be reminded that we wield the machines and not the other way around.

Before you misconstrue modesty with a lack of innovation, take a lesson from Sononic's earphones – the contemporary in-ear design is contrasted with cloth-insulated wires that let us know it doesn't have to be a struggle to pick out a decent set of earphones.

« Multimedia Desktop DX 5500

